

Workshopping/Peer Review Draft Sheet

---

engl 131 / sec. A3 / spring quarter 2005-06 / chang

Paper Title: _____

Writer's Name: _____ Reviewer's Name: _____

Actively read your classmate's draft carefully (if there is time, read it out loud). Underline important and useful and compelling ideas and language. Circle or bracket unclear, problematic, or weak ideas and language. Finally, make generous marginalia and comments that help identify, elaborate, or celebrate something in the draft. Answer the following questions as a way to discuss and review the paper. Please collect the 2 draft sheets to be included in your portfolio along with your own paper.

---

What is the claim of this paper? Does it make sense? Is it "complex, analytic, persuasive" or simply opinion? Is it specific enough? Can you identify the exigence of the paper?

---

What are the subclaims of this paper? Do they relate to and support the overall claim of the paper?

---

What kind of support or evidence does the writer give? Does the writer use research "in strategic, focused ways to support the goals" of the writing? Are there enough quotes? Where could more evidence be used?

---

Is the paper well organized? How does the writer make their transitions? Do all the individual paragraphs have a purpose?

---

Does the writer take into account his or her audience and rhetorical situation? What is the overall tone? Is the writing persuasive, engaging, compelling? What are the rhetorical strategies or tactics used?

---

Is the paper stylistically and mechanically effective (e.g. conventions, grammar, MLA format, introduction of quotes, simple and elegant, clear and precise)?

---

What are the two most important suggestions you have for this writer to assist in revision?