

Workshop 3.1: Prospective Claim Worksheet

gis 140 / sec. A / early fall quarter 2007-08 / chang

Take a look at the Final Portfolio assignment sheet and the Prospective Cover Letter assignment sheet. Consider the goals and outcomes of the Prospective essay. Using short answers, fill out the following worksheet as a way to brainstorm and metacognitively think about what you have experienced, learned, developed, and done this quarter. The more specific, the more concrete, and the more strategic you are with your answers, the stronger and clearer your Prospective essay will be.

- 1. Identify three ways that demonstrate how you understand the key GIS 140 outcomes, skills, strategies, and practices (e.g. what have you learned about writing, reading, and learning?):

- 2. Pull three Strengths and three Difficulties from your inventories most significant or important to you and that demonstrate how you have learned about working through reading and writing challenges.

- 3. Identify three specific features or strategies of your writing process (e.g. brainstorming, outlining, time-management, close reading the assignment sheet, revision) most important or changed for you. How are they different now than when you first started this class?

- 4. What course text(s) did you find the most interesting or useful? Why?

- 5. What course text(s) did you find the most challenging? Why?

- 6. What assignment did you find the most interesting or useful? Why?

- 7. What assignment did you find the most challenging? Why?

- 8. How did you participate in class? In the broader academic community?

- 9. How you will approach future academic writing and reading assignments?
